

The Clarkin Family is made up of 12 biological siblings all raised in a small house in Mineola. 7 of the 12 children live with some form of developmental disability. Fast forward the “children” are now adults ranging in age from 48 to 64, parents pass away leaving the house to the 7 children with the 5 children acting as guardians and caretakers of their siblings. The siblings are all very close. To hear them talk about each other is an inspiration.

Now Imagine:

- The house falls into disrepair
- The State of New York says they will pay for the repair
- The guardians move the siblings into a rental house so that repairs can begin
- The State of New York changes its mind about the repair because of the budget crisis
- The pipes burst in the house and it becomes uninhabitable

Now What?

Charlie Hammerman hears about the story. He meets with Nassau County Government who introduces him to Habitat for Humanity.

Now Know:

The DOF and Habitat for Humanity partner to bring the Clarkins home.

The DOF has agreed to help the Clarkins with fundraising and financing of the materials needed to fix up the house and buy appliances.
